$1,200 HOP LICENSE

CITY COUNCIL INCREASES FEE ON SALE OF SOFT DRINKS

W. C. T. U. Women Present Petition to City Fathers Asking Raise and Council Votes 5 to 1

A bombshell was thrown into the ranks of the proprietors of soft drink stands in Stanford at the regular monthly meeting of the Stanford City Council Thursday night when the annual license on such places was raised from $200 to $1,200. A numerously signed petition was presented to the Council asking for its increase, the petition stating that the additional sum sought to be raised was needed for the expenses of the city. This was stated in the petition, it is understood, to come within the provisions of the law on the subject as recently interpreted by the Court of Appeals, though, of course, the real object behind the movement was to make the license so high that no one will be able to pay it and the "hop joints" will have to go out of business. Ladies of the local chapter of the W. C. T. U. circulated the petitions Thursday and presented them to the council that night. Five of the six councilmen voted for the increase, Councilmen Rupley, W. B. Hill, Harry Hill, Reinhardt and O'Bannon. Councilman Bill Hocker voted against the raise. The new ordinance was offered by W. B. Hill and seconded by Dr. O'Bannon.

Under the interpretation of City Attorney T. J. Hill and other lawyers, the increase in license does not apply to the license of the soft drink stand proprietors now in effect, but will become effective when their annual licenses expire. The council granted Mat Martin a renewal of his license for another year a few weeks ago; the license of J. C. Lynn expires Jan. 1st next, while that of John Hayden, colored, expires in October. The increased license applies to all malt drinks, such as Near-Beer, Malt-Mead, hops and any drink of the sort such as is usually sold in dry territory.

The council authorized Chief of Police Carter to have a special policeman appointed for county court day to be stationed on Church street where the "horse jockeys" congregate on court days and sometimes become quite boisterous in their trading operations. The rest of the business before the City Fathers was merely of a routine nature.

Circus Coming to Town

Sparks "World Famous" Shows To Exhibit Here September 20.

Four hundred people employed and carrying over two hundred foreign and domestic animals, is the statement made by Mr. J. C. Tracy, agent for the Sparks Shows, who was in town Thursday making arrangements for the appearance of this big circus here on Wednesday, September 20. The strange colony of people, handsome horses, rare wild animals and the golden caravans are scheduled to arrive here during the early hours of the morning of the above date in their own special train from Corbin, where they will exhibit the day before. Circus day will begin with a big street parade at 10:30 A. M., and two performances will be given, the first starting at 2 o'clock and the other at 8 o'clock. Grounds known as the water works lot have been arranged for by the agent and a number of the local merchants will receive contracts to furnish immense quantities of feed stuff for both man and beast. The Sparks World Famous Shows have been successfully established for the past twenty-seven years and bear a reputation second to none for the high class exhibitions presented and the honest manner they have of dealing with the public—no gambling or grafting being tolerated or carried with these shows.

News of the Churches

Usual services at the Baptist church Sunday.

Rev. A. J. Clerc has resigned as pastor of the Baptist church at Lancaster.

Rev. W. D. Welburn will preach at McKinney Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Baptist church.

Services at the Christian church Sunday, Sept. 10. Sunday School 9:30; preaching 10:45 and 7:30. C. E. meeting at 6:45.

Usual services at the Methodist church Sunday: at 10:45 and 7:30; preaching by the pastor; Sunday school at 9:30; Epworth league at 7 P. M.

There will be services in the Hustonville Presbyterian church next Sunday morning and night; preaching by Rev. E. S. Brainard; with the view to a call to the pastorate. Let all of the members be present. Sunday School at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11 o'clock; 7:30 at night—Chas. Wheeler, Elder.

Senator J. C. W. Beckham has secured passports for Mrs. Belle H. Bennett, of Richmond, who is to leave soon for Europe to take up work as a Methodist missionary. The exact location of Mrs. Bennett will most probably be determined after she reaches London. Senator Beckham also furnished Mrs. Bennett a letter of introduction to consular officers of the United States, asking that she be given any assistance or information desired.

Black Here Monday

Lieutenant Governor To Open Campaign in Lincoln

Voters of Lincoln county have a treat before them on Monday, Sept. 11th, which is County Court Day for Lieut. Gov. James D. Black, of Barbourville, will be here to open the campaign for Democracy in Lincoln, speaking at the court house at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Gov. Black is one of the most eloquent speakers in the party in the state today and one of the real big men of the party. He is greatly interested in seeing old Kentucky roll up an old-time majority for Woodrow Wilson in November, and is doing some very effective work toward that most desired result. Gov. Black has made a splendid record in office and has a large number of friends in Lincoln, who will undoubtedly be on hand to hear him.

HON. JAMES D. BLACK

SWOPE TO SPEAK, TOO.

Just as the I. J. went to press, Dr. R. L. Davison asked it to announce that King Swope, of Danville, will be here Monday to speak for the Republican party. Whether a division of time will be asked for, or he will speak after Gov. Black, has not been decided yet, Dr. Davison said.

The Sick Folks

Mr. Asa Peyton, of Moreland, is seriously ill of heart trouble.

Former Chief of Police Luther Herron, is reported quite ill at Lancaster.

Dr. J. B. Perkins is still quite ill with typhoid fever. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Lelia Cook, is greatly improved and about able to sit up.

J. W. Overstreet, of Boyle, passed through to Winchester this morning to visit his sister and attend the campaign opening tomorrow. He said that his brother, Hence Overstreet, who has typhoid fever, is doing splendidly and would be out soon.

Mrs. Rosa Thomas, of Lagrange, arrived Thursday evening to be with her son, Dave Thomas, who is still very low with typhoid fever at his apartments on Lancaster street. Reports from his bedside Friday morning were that he is holding his own fairly well, and had a restful night.

Many friends here will regret to learn that Mrs. W. T. Davis, sister of Messrs. W. L. and J. M. McCarty, of this city, is very ill. The Pineville Sun, published at her home said last week: Word reached here on Wednesday morning that Mrs. W. T. Davis is now a patient in St. Joseph's Infirmary at Lexington and is seriously ill. Judge and Mrs. Davis have been at Grand Rapids, Mich., for the past several weeks, for the benefit of Mrs. Davis' health. She did not improve and they left that city for home Monday, accompanied by a trained nurse, to care for Mrs. Davis.

At Paris her condition was such that it was deemed unadvisable to continue the journey to Pineville, and Mrs. Davis was taken to Lexington and placed in the hospital. It is to be hoped that her condition will rapidly improve, and that she will soon be able to return home.

OWENS—WALLS.

Miss Lillie Pearl Owens and Varney B. Walls, were married at the courthouse Wednesday by Judge Bailey with his most approved ceremony. Both are popular young people of the McKinney section. The groom is 25 years old and a son of that well known democratic worker W. F. Walls, while his bride is just 19 and is the daughter of Samuel Owens of that section. They will make their home near McKinney and have the best wishes and congratulations of many friends. They were brought to town in an auto by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Yocom, of McKinney, to have their nuptial knot tied.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

The marriage licenses issued this week are as follows:

Claude Rogers, 22 years, farmer and Miss Peachie Terry, 16 years, were married at Highland Sept. 5th.

Frank Wientjes, 25, and Miss Barbara Russell, 17, were married at the Catholic church at Ottenheim Wednesday.

Joseph Fletcher, 23 and Miss Eva Toombs, 24, were married at the courthouse Sept. 6, by Judge Bailey.

Morris Brown, 21, and Miss Ellen Menfee, 16, were married Thursday.

COTTAGES built on the Varnon lots to be sold Monday at 3 P. M. will rent like hot cakes.

Local Democrats Going

Congressman Helm To Head Delegation To Winchester Saturday

Quite a number of Lincoln county democrats are making plans to attend the Democratic State Campaign opening in Winchester next Saturday, Sept. 9th. Congressman Harvey Helm will head the delegation which will go from here and as usual, old Lincoln will hold up her end well. Great preparations are being made by the people of Clark county for the State Campaign opening at Winchester, September 9th, and the occasion is going to be a memorable one. The citizens, without regard to politics, are united in the effort to eclipse any former opening and General Manager John E. Garner, ably assisted by County Judge John M. Stephenson, are working to that end with tireless activity. The principal speakers will be Vice President Thos. M. Marshall, Congressman Thos. Heflin, of Alabama and Scott Ferris, of Oklahoma, each a spell binder. Barbecued meats and burgoo will be prepared for 20,000 people. It is going to be a season of oratory, love-feasts and feasts of good things. Everybody is invited and it is hoped that all who can will accept the invitation. The Winchester people want you and you are wanted to help make the crowd the largest that ever attended a campaign opening.

BOHON FARM BRINGS $18,700

C. T. Bohon & Son, of Lebanon, on Saturday sold their fine farm of 180 acres, situated a mile and a half this side of Lebanon, on the Danville pike, to F. M. Pemberton, of Greensburg, for $18,700. On Tuesday this week the new owner resold the place to Mr. Fay McClure, of Barbourville, who is originally from Iowa. He is understood to have paid Pemberton a nice profit. Personal property sold fairly well at the Bohon sale. Horses brought up to $155 a head; mules up to $355 a pair and pigs $4.85 a head. Red Rex, a well known saddle stallion, was bought by Wm. Smith for $550 and another stallion, Harvey Highland, was sold to W. M. Barnes, of Taylor county, for $500. Mr. Bohon has accepted the management of the George Bohon estate embracing nearly 1,000 acres of land at Shakertown, Mercer county, and he and his family will move there to reside.

MORNING PARTY

Mrs. Will H. Shanks entertained with a very attractive morning party on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. R. C. Saufley, of Phoenix, Ariz., guest of Mrs. Shelton Saufley and her aunt, Mrs. Willie Hocker, of Pine Bluff, Ark. The pretty home was very attractive, decorated with large baskets of asters in different shades and in the living room yellow canna and white clematis were used. A delightful luncheon was served at the noon hour. The following guests enjoyed the hospitality of this gracious hostess: Mesdames R. C. Saufley, S. M. Saufley, C. E. Tate, Wm. Severance, T. A. Rice, J. S. Rice, Annie Engleman, E. P. Woods, Bettie Bush, W. A. Tribble, G. G. Perry, J. S. Owlsley, Misses Willie Hocker, Sue Woods, Sue Taylor Engleman, Mary Burch.

ROOK CLUB ENTERTAINED

Mrs. J. C. Bailey was hostess of the Rook Club on Tuesday afternoon at her new home on East Main. The house was attractively decorated in bunches of garden flowers. Misses Lucile Cooper and Ophelia Lackey assisted the hostess in entertaining and served frappe. Most of the club members were present. Among them were the following: Mesdames Wm. Severance, J. B. Paxton, G. G. Perry, J. B. Foster, T. A. Rice, R. C. Hocker, R. T. Bruce, R. M. Newland, H. J. McRoberts, J. H. Woods, Louanna Holdam, E. J. Brown, J. S. Owlsley, S. M. Saufley, R. C. Saufley, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Mrs. W. C. Wilson, Misses Willie Hocker, Sue Woods, Sue Taylor Engleman, and Virginia Omer, of West Point, Ga.

LOGAN'S FORT UNVEILING

A delightful program and most interesting session has been arranged for the unveiling of the marker of the old Logan's Fort this afternoon in the front yard at the home of J. B. Camenisch where the old fort stood. The ceremonies are under the auspices of the D. A. R. of Stanford and Danville. The address accepting the monument on behalf of the city will be delivered by Dr. J. G. Carpenter, acting for Mayor A. B. Florence.

SMALL FARMS CHANGE HANDS

Mrs. S. E. Owlsley bought this week the T. A. Brent farm of five acres on the Preachersville pike, near A. T. Nunnelley's place, paying $800 for it. Mr. Brent then bought from J. M. Kerr, his farm in the same section for $2,100. Mr. Brent gets 33 acres.

THOMPSON—WOOD

The marriage of Mrs. Mamie Neal Thompson, of Lexington, to Henry Cleveland Wood, of Harrodsburg, was solemnized last Thursday evening at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. John M. Farra, and Mrs. Farra, in Lancaster, Rev. Robert N. Simpson, of the Harrodsburg Christian church officiating.

Masonic Grand Master

To Be Guest of Lincoln Lodge No. 60 Monday Night.

Members of Lincoln lodge No. 60 F. & A. M. are anticipating a delightful time next Monday evening, Sept. 11th, when the lodge will have as its guest the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, Hon. T. J. Adams, of Louisville, who is known far and wide in Masonic circles and out as the superintendent of that great institution the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home. Other distinguished guests who will be here on that occasion will be Deputy Grand Master J. N. Saunders, of this city, who goes to the Grand Master's chair next year; Major John H. Leathers, past Grand Master and Grand Treasurer for 40 years, and Dave Jackson, Grand Secretary. The Danville degree team, headed by Hugh Moore, who is regarded by all who have seen him work, as a worthy successor to the late Henry Sandifer in every way, will exemplify the third, or Master's degree upon a local candidate. After the formal ceremonies, light refreshments will be served in the lodge room.

Words With The Bark On Them

When he was Secretary of State, Mr. Bryan wrote a letter to the Receiver of Customs at Santo Domingo inquiring as to what positions could be obtained for "deserving democrats." Candidate Hughes quoted this letter in his speeches declaring it shameful, and the Commoner comes back at him like a thousand of brick. He says that he enforced the civil service law to the letter with the employees of the State Department wherever it was in force, but he felt free to reward deserving Democrats whenever it could be done without detriment to the service. Then after declaring that Mr. Hughes has shown himself prompt in "discharging obligations" he hands it to him thus:

"When he was candidate for Governor Mr. Hughes received the support of the railroads of New York, and he generously repaid the debt by vetoing the two-cent passenger rate bill. He did not describe that as shameful. When a candidate for Governor he received the support of the New York tax dodgers, the owners of 'swollen fortunes' and he paid his debt by sending a message to the legislature protesting against the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution. He does not describe that as shameful."

"He is now being supported by the railroads of the United States, and he expects to pay them back by aiding them to escape state legislation and find a haven of security in 'exclusive Federal control over the railroads'; he is being supported by the Shipping Trust, and expects to pay them back by helping them to prevent Government competition. He is supported by the trust magnates, and expects to pay them back by the shielding of them from punishment for the extortion which they desire to practise; he is supported by Wall street and expects to pay them back by spending American blood and by squandering money raised by taxation in order to guarantee profits on speculative investments."

"And yet, with the record which he has made in paying his political obligations at the expense of the public and with the pledges his speeches contain to those who are now aiding his ambitions, he has impudence to hold up for criticism a legitimate effort to reward competent men for the service which they have rendered to the cause of reform."

This seems to have brought Mr. Hughes to his senses, as he has not referred directly to the matter since Mr. Bryan's pointed strictures. Mr. Hughes' seeming determination to knock everybody and everything Democratic is proving a boomerang and he will soon discover that to a he does, it is a very foolish performance to throw rocks.

Moose Leader Speaks for Wilson.
Hugh A. McMillan, acting State chairman of the Utah Progressive party, believes that Utah members of the party will refuse to follow Roosevelt into the Hughes camp. Speaking of the action taken at Chicago, he said:

"In my opinion the Progressives of Utah will emphatically decline to follow a leadership which has repudiated the principles which gave birth to the organization, viz., opposition to the control of the country by a crowd of self-interested plutocrats, whose every action denies the cardinal principle of equal opportunity.

"For myself, believing that Mr. Wilson has the rare genius of keeping his ear to the ground listening to the demands of the people and the still rare genius of being responsible to the people's demands, I will stand by the President and vote for Wilson."

The Woman's Club Monument

(From Woman's Club Daily I. J.

The club movement as America knows it might be called a "war baby," for it was born in those soul-stirring, reconstructive days just following the civil war. Here as the war is now doing in Europe, woman's energies were freed by the emergencies that followed the loss of life and property. During and after the war women found themselves called upon to do things they had never done before, and to fill places from which they had been excluded.

What has distinguished the woman's club from the man's club from the beginning has been the fact that men's clubs were begun as a banding together for social or economic reasons. The woman's club became at once a center of purely altruistic and democratic activity. It is a curious fact, conceded by all historians of the club movement, that it had no leaders. It blossomed into being here, there and everywhere at once, and without well defined leadership. Altho leadership is not, even to this day, accentuated, the Federation has undeniably developed some great leaders of women during its existence. And what are their ends?

What are they about, these great groups that fuse into this one greater group, the General Federation? Take their year books and watch their programs, and you will find they schedule industrial and social work, literary work, legislative work, educational work, work for public health and work for the conservation of forests and coal beds. You will find that they fight against child labor and they fight for public playgrounds. They carry on pure food campaigns and they concern themselves about school improvement and urge better school curriculums. Every year their methods grow more efficient. Every year they learn how better to bring to bear the pressure needed to secure the coveted reforms. Not all women have ever united for or against any issue, but nine thousand individual clubs and eleven national organizations contribute to the federation's membership lists and the lists are growing. Never before in the history of club work has there been the widespread and deep down appreciation of the strength in unity that there is today among club women. We have become so accustomed to these civic and social activities of club women that we are not as appreciative of the great work they are doing as we should be, neither are we appreciative of the fact that the General Federation is strictly American. You will not find its counterpart in any European country. There are women's clubs of course, in every country, but our country stands alone in the unification of a vast body of women for the purpose of inspiring a "higher type of citizenship, a better public spirit and a more alert social consciousness." When we know that there are nearly three million club women in America we cannot close without asking the question, "What would happen if all of the women in this country would get together on an issue of large concern?"

"Uncle Mose" a Poet

Mr. Moses D. Elmore.
"Uncle Mose" Elmore, one of Stanford's oldest, most respected and wealthiest citizens, read a poetic clipping from an exchange in regard to tobacco, and sat down and on the spur of the moment wrote his experience with the weed in verse, which is pretty good effort for a man 78 years of age, as all will agree. Here's what Col. Elmore wrote:

"Tobacco is an awful weed.

It was the devil sowed the seed.

It drains your pocket and stains your clothes,

And makes a chimney of your nose.

I chew and sell the darned old stuff

But I do not smoke it or use snuff."

PROMISES KEPT, SAYS PRESIDENT

Mr. Wilson Reviews His Work
as Chief Magistrate.

PARTY HAS DONE ITS DUTY.

Tariff Revised, Laws Against Trusts Clarified, Banking System Reformed, Farmers and Workingmen Benefited by Remedial Measures, American Merchant Marine Revived, National Defense Provided For.

In his address at Shadow Lawn, Long Branch, N. J., accepting the Democratic nomination for president, Woodrow Wilson said:

Senator James, Gentlemen of the Notification Committee, Fellow Citizens:

I cannot accept the leadership and responsibility which the national Democratic convention has again in such generous fashion asked me to accept without first expressing my profound gratitude to the party for the trust it reposes in me after four years of fiery trial in the midst of affairs of unprecedented difficulty, and the keen sense of added responsibility with which this honor fills (I had almost said burdens) me as I think of the great issues of national life and policy involved in the present and immediate future conduct of our government. I shall seek, as I have always sought, to justify the extraordinary confidence thus reposed in me by striving to purge my heart and purpose of every personal and/or every misleading party motive and devoting every energy I have to the service of the nation as a whole, praying that I may continue to have the counsel and support of all forward looking men at every turn of the difficult business.

For I do not doubt that the people of the United States will wish the Democratic party to continue in control of the government. They are not in the habit of rejecting those who have actually served them for those who are making doubtful and conjectural promises of service. Least of all are they likely to substitute those who promised to render them particular services and proved false to that promise for those who have actually rendered those very services.

Boasting is always an empty business, which pleases nobody but the boaster, and I have no disposition to boast of what the Democratic party has accomplished. It has merely done its duty. It has merely fulfilled its explicit promises. But there can be no violation of good taste in calling attention to the manner in which those promises have been carried out or in advertising to the interesting fact that many of the things accomplished were what the opposition party had again and again promised to do, but had left undone. Indeed, that is manifestly part of the business of this year of reckoning and assessment. There is no means of judging the future except by assessing the past. Constructive action must be weighed against destructive comment and reaction. The Democrats either have or have not understood the varied interests of the country. The test is contained in the record.

What is that record? What were the Democrats called into power to do? What things had long waited to be done, and how did the Democrats do them? It is a record of extraordinary length and variety, rich in elements of many kinds, but consistent in principle throughout and susceptible of brief recital.

A Record of Failure.

The Republican party was put out of power because of failure, practical failure and moral failure; because it had served special interests and not the country at large; because, under the leadership of its preferred and established guides, of those who still make its choices, it had lost touch with the thoughts and needs of the nation and was living in a past age and under a fixed illusion, the illusion of greatness. It had framed tariff laws based upon a fear of foreign trade, a fundamental doubt as to American skill, enterprise and capacity, and a very tender regard for the profitable privileges of those who had gained control of domestic markets and domestic credits, and yet had enacted anti-trust laws which hampered the very things they meant to foster, which were stiff and inelastic and in part unintelligible. It had permitted the country throughout the long period of its control to stagger from one financial crisis to another under the operation of a national banking law of its own framing which made stringency and panic certain and the control of the larger business operations of the country by the bankers of a few reserve centers inevitable; had made as it meant to reform the law, but had faint heartedly failed in the attempt, because it could not bring itself to do the one thing necessary to make the reform genuine and effectual—namely, break up the control of small groups of bankers. It had been oblivious or indifferent to the fact that the farmers, upon whom the country depends for its food and in the last analysis for its prosperity, were without standing in the matter of commercial credit, without protection of standards in their market transactions and without systematic knowledge of the markets themselves; that the laborers of the country, the great army of men who man the industries it was professing to father and promote, carried their labor as a mere commodity to market, were subject to restraint by novel and drastic process in the courts, were without assurance of compensation for industrial accidents, without federal assistance in accommodating labor disputes and without national aid or advice in finding the places and the industries in which their labor was most needed. The country had no national system of road construction and development. Little intelligent attention was paid to the army and not enough to the navy. The other republics of America distrusted us, because they found that we thought first of the profits of American investors and only as an afterthought of impartial justice and helpful friendship. Its policy was provincial in all things; its purposes were out of harmony with the temper and purposes of the people and the timely development of the nation's interests.

Party Has Redeemed Promises.

So things stood when the Democratic party came into power. How do they stand now? Alike in the domestic field and in the wide field of the commerce of the world, American business and life and industry have been set free to move as they never moved before. The tariff has been revised, not on the principle of repelling foreign trade, but upon the principle of encouraging it, upon something like a footing of equality with our own in respect of the terms of competition, and a tariff board has been created whose function it will be to keep the relations of American with foreign business and industry under constant observation, for the guidance alike of our business men and of our congress. American energies are now directed toward the markets of the world.

The laws against trusts have been clarified by definition, with a view to making it plain that they were not directed against big business, but only against unfair business and the pretense of competition where there was none, and a trade commission has been created with powers of guidance and accommodation which have relieved business men of unfounded fears and set them upon the road of hopeful and confident enterprise.

By the federal reserve act the supply of currency at the disposal of active business has been rendered elastic, taking its volume not from a fixed body of investment securities, but from the liquid assets of daily trade, and these assets are assessed and accepted not by distant groups of bankers in control of unavailable reserves, but by bankers at the many centers of local exchange who are in touch with local conditions everywhere.

Effective measures have been taken for the re-creation of an American merchant marine and the revival of the American carrying trade indispensable to our emancipation from the control which foreigners have so long exercised over the opportunities, the routes and the methods of our commerce with other countries.

The interstate commerce commission has been reorganized to enable it to perform its great and important functions more promptly and more efficiently. We have created, extended and improved the service of the parcels post. So much we have done for business. What other party has understood the task so well or executed it so intelligently and energetically? What other party has attempted it at all? The Republican leaders, apparently, know of no means of assisting business but "protection." How to stimulate it and put it upon a new footing of energy and enterprise they have not suggested.

Farmers Have Been Benefited.
For the farmers of the country we have virtually created commercial credit by means of the federal reserve act and the rural credits act. They now have the standing of other business men in the money market. We have successfully regulated speculation in "futures" and established standards in the marketing of grains. By an intelligent warehouse act we have assisted to make the standard crops available as never before both for systematic marketing and as a security for loans from the banks. We have greatly added to the work of neighborhood demonstration on the farm itself of improved methods of cultivation and, through the intelligent extension of the functions of the department of agriculture, have made it possible for the farmer to learn systematically where his best markets are and how to get at them.

The workingmen of America have been given a veritable emancipation by the legal recognition of a man's labor as part of his life and not a mere marketable commodity, by exempting labor organizations from processes of the courts which treated their members like fractional parts of mobs and not like accessible and responsible individuals, by releasing our seamen from involuntary servitude, by making adequate provision for compensation for industrial accidents, by providing suitable machinery for mediation and conciliation in industrial disputes and by putting the federal department of labor at the disposal of the workingman when in search of work.

We have effected the emancipation of the children of the country by releasing them from hurtful labor. We have instituted a system of national aid in the building of highroads such as the country has been feeling after for a century. We have sought to equalize taxation by means of an equitable income tax. We have taken the steps that ought to have been taken at the outset to open up the resources of Alaska. We have provided for national defense upon a scale never before seriously proposed upon the responsibility of an entire political party. We have driven the tariff lobby from cover and obliged it to substitute solid argument for private influence.

This extraordinary recital must sound like a platform, a list of sanguine promises, but it is not. It is a record of promises made four years ago and now actually redeemed in constructive legislation.

These things must profoundly disturb the thoughts and confound the plans of those who have made themselves believe that the Democratic party neither understood nor was ready to assist the business of the country in the great enterprises which it is evident and inevitable destiny to undertake and carry through. The breaking up of the lobby must especially disconcert them, for it was through the lobby that they sought and were sure they had found the heart of things. The game of privilege can be played successfully by no other means.

Fought by the Interests.

This record must equally astonish those who feared that the Democratic party had not opened its heart to comprehend the demands of social justice. We have in four years come very near to carrying out the platform of the Progressive party as well as our own for we also are progressives.

There is one circumstance connected with this program which ought to be very plainly stated. It was resisted at every step by the interests, which the Republican party had catered to and fostered at the expense of the country, and these same interests are now earnestly praying for a reaction which will save their privileges—for the restoration of their sworn friends to power before it is too late to recover what they have lost. They fought with particular desperation and infinite resourcefulness the reform of the banking and currency system, knowing that to be the citadel of their control, and most anxiously are they hoping and planning for the amendment of the federal reserve act by the concentration of control in a single bank which the old familiar group of bankers can keep under their eye and direction; but, while the "big men" who used to write the tariffs and command the assistance of the treasury have been hostile—all but a few with vision—the average business man knows that he has been delivered and that the fear that was once every day in his heart that the men who controlled credit and directed enterprise from the committee rooms of congress would crush him, is there no more and will not return, unless the party that consulted only the "big men" should return to power—the party of masterly inactivity and cunning resourcefulness in standing pat to resist change.

The Republican party is just the party that cannot meet the new conditions of a new age. It does not know the way, and it does not wish new conditions. It tried to break away from the old leaders and could not. They still select its candidates and dictate its policy, still resist change, still hanker after the old conditions, still know no methods of encouraging business but the old methods. When it changes its leaders and its purposes and brings its ideas up to date it will have the right to ask the American people to give it power again, but not until then. A new age, an age of revolutionary change, needs new purposes and new ideals.

In foreign affairs we have been guided by principles clearly conceived and consistently lived up to. Perhaps they have not been fully comprehended because they have hitherto governed international affairs only in theory, not in practice. They are simple, obvious, easily stated and fundamental to American ideals.

We have been neutral not only because it was the fixed and traditional policy of the United States to stand aloof from the politics of Europe and because we had had no part either of action or of policy in the influences which brought on the present war, but also because it was manifestly our duty to prevent, if it were possible, the indefinite extension of the fires of hate and desolation kindled by that terrible conflict and seek to serve mankind by reserving our strength and our resources for the anxious and difficult days of restoration and healing which must follow, when peace will have to build its house anew.

American Citizen, Above All.

The rights of our own citizens, of course, became involved; that was inevitable. Where they did this was our guiding principle—that property rights can be vindicated by claims for damages when the war is over, and no modern nation can decline to arbitrate such claims, but the fundamental rights of humanity cannot be. The loss of life is irreparable. Neither can direct violations of a nation's sovereignty await vindication in suits for damages. The nation that violates these essential rights must expect to be checked and called to account by direct challenge and resistance. It at once makes the quarrel in part our own. These are plain principles, and we have never lost sight of them or departed from them, whatever the stress or the perplexity of circumstance or the provocation to hasty resentment. The record is clear and consistent throughout and stands distinct and definite for any one to judge who wishes to know the truth about it.

The seas were not broad enough to keep the infection of the conflict out of our own politics. The passions and intrigues of certain active groups and combinations of men among us who were born under foreign flags injected the poison of disloyalty into our own most critical affairs, laid violent hands upon many of our industries and subjected us to the shame of divisions of sentiment and purpose in which America was contumely and forgotten. It is part of the business of this year of reckoning and settlement to speak plainly and act with unmistakable purpose in rebuke of these things, in order that they may be forever hereafter impossible. I am the candidate of a party, but I am above all things else an American citizen. I neither seek the favor nor fear the displeasure of that small alien element among us which puts loyalty to any foreign power before loyalty to the United States.

While Europe was at war our own continent, one of our own neighbors, was shaken by revolution. In that matter, too, principle was plain, and it was imperative that we should live up to it if we were to deserve the trust of any real partisan of the right as free men see it. We have professed to believe, and we do believe, that the people of small and weak states have the right to expect to be dealt with exactly as the people of big and powerful states would be. We have acted upon that principle in dealing with the people of Mexico.

The Mexican Situation.

Our recent pursuit of bandits into Mexican territory was no violation of that principle. We ventured to enter Mexican territory only because there were no military forces in Mexico that could protect our border from hostile attack and our own people from violence, and we have committed there no single act of hostility or interference even with the sovereign authority of the republic of Mexico herself. It was a plain case of the violation of our own sovereignty which could not wait to be vindicated by damages and for which there was no other remedy. The authorities of Mexico were powerless to prevent it.

Many serious wrongs against the property, many irreparable wrongs against the persons, of Americans have been committed within the territory of Mexico herself during this confused revolution—wrongs which could not be effectively checked so long as there was no constituted power in Mexico which was in a position to check them. We could not act directly in that matter ourselves without denying Mexicans the right to any revolution at all which disturbed us and making the emancipation of her own people await our own interest and convenience.

For it is their emancipation that they are seeking—blindly, it may be, and as yet ineffectually, but with profound and passionate purpose and within their unquestionable right, apply what true American principle you will—any principle that American would publicly avow. The people of Mexico have not been suffered to own their own country or direct their own institutions. Outsiders, men out of other nations and with interests too often alien to their own, have dictated what their privileges and opportunities should be and who should control their land, their lives and their resources—some of them Americans, pressing for things they could never have got in their own country. The Mexican people are entitled to attempt their liberty from such influences, and so long as I have anything to do with the action of our great government I shall do everything in my power to prevent any one standing in my way. I know that this is hard for some persons to understand, but it is not hard for the plain people of the United States to understand. It is hard doctrine only for those who wish to get something for themselves out of Mexico. There are men, and noble women, too, not a few, of our own people, thank God, whose fortunes are invested in great properties in Mexico who yet see the case with true vision and assess its issues with true American feeling. The rest can be left for the present out of the reckoning until this enslaved people has had its day of struggle toward the light. I have heard no one who was free from such influences propose interference by the United States with the internal affairs of Mexico. Certainly no friend of the Mexican people has proposed it.

Tried to Act Fairly.

The people of the United States are capable of great sympathies and a noble pity in dealing with problems of this kind. As their spokesman and representative I have tried to act in the spirit they would wish me to show. The people of Mexico are striving for the rights that are fundamental to life and happiness—15,000,000 oppressed men, overburdened women and pitiful children in virtual bondage in their own home of fertile lands and inexhaustible treasure. Some of the leaders of the revolution may often have been mistaken and violent and selfish, but the revolution itself was inevitable and is right. The unspeakable Huerta betrayed the very comrades he served, traitorously overthrew the government of which he was a trusted part, impudently spoke for the very forces that had driven his people to the rebellion with which he had pretended to sympathize. The men who overcame him and drove him out represent at least the fierce passion of reconstruction which lies at the very heart of liberty, and so long as they represent, however imperfectly, such a struggle for deliverance I am ready to serve their ends when I can. So long as the power of recognition rests with me the government of the United States will refuse to extend the hand of welcome to any one who obtains power in a sister republic by treachery and violence. No permanency can be given to the affairs of any republic by a title based upon intrigue and assassination. I declared that to be the policy of this administration within three weeks after I assumed the presidency. I here again vow it. I am more interested in the fortunes of oppressed men and pitiful women and children than in any property rights whatever. Mistakes I have no doubt made in this perplexing business, but not in purpose or object.

More is Involved than the Immediate Destinies of Mexico and the Relations of the United States with a Distressed and Distracted People.

More is involved than the immediate destinies of Mexico and the relations of the United States with a distressed and distracted people. All America looks on. Test is now being made of us whether we be sincere lovers of popular liberty or not and are indeed to be trusted to respect national sovereignty among our weaker neighbors. We have undertaken these many years to play big brother to the republics of this hemisphere. This is the day of our test whether we mean or have ever meant to play that part for our own benefit wholly or also for theirs. Upon the outcome of that test (it outcome in their minds, not in ours) depends every relationship of the United States with Latin America, whether in politics or in commerce and enterprise. These are great issues and lie at the heart of the gravest tasks of the future, tasks both economic and political and very intimately wrought with many of the most vital of the new issues of the politics of the world. The republics of America have in the last three years been drawing together in a new spirit of accommodation, mutual understanding and cordial co-operation. Much of the politics of the world in the years to come will depend upon their relationships with one another. It is a barren and provincial statesmanship that loses sight of such things!

New Problems After War.

The future, the immediate future, will bring us squarely face to face with many great and exacting problems which will search us through and through whether we be able and ready to play the part in the world that we mean to play. It will not bring us into their presence slowly, gently, with ceremonious introduction, but suddenly and at once the moment the war in Europe is over. They will be new problems, most of them; many will be old problems in a new setting and with new elements which we have never dealt with or reckoned the force and meaning of before. They will require for their solution new thinking, fresh courage and resourcefulness and in some matters radical reconsiderations of policy. We must be ready to mobilize our resources alike of brains and of materials.

It is not a future to be afraid of. It is, rather, a future to stimulate and excite us to the display of the best powers that are in us. We may enter it with confidence when we are sure that we understand it, and we have provided ourselves already with the means of understanding it.

Look first at what it will be necessary that the nations of the world should do to make the days to come tolerable and fit to live and work in, and then look at our part in what is to follow and our own duty of preparation. For we must be prepared both in resources and in policy.

There must be a just and settled peace, and we here in America must contribute the full force of our enthusiasm and of our authority as a nation to the organization of that peace upon worldwide foundations that cannot easily be shaken. No nation should be forced to take sides in any quarrel in which its own honor and integrity and the fortunes of its own people are not involved, but no nation can any longer remain neutral as against any wilful disturbance of the peace of the world. The effect of war can no longer be confined to the areas of battle. No nation stands wholly apart in interest when the life and interests of all nations are thrown into confusion and peril. If hopeful and generous enterprise is to be renewed, if the healing and helpful arts of life are indeed to be revived when peace comes again, a new atmosphere of justice and friendship must be generated by means the world has never tried before. The nations of the world must unite in joint guarantees that whatever is done to disturb the whole world's life must first be tested in the court of the whole world's opinion before it is attempted.

These are the new foundations the world must build for itself, and we must play our part in the reconstruction generously and without too much thought of our separate interests. We must make ourselves ready to play it intelligently, vigorously and well.

Contribution to World Peace.

One of the contributions we must make to the world's peace is this: We must see to it that the people in our insular possessions are treated in their own lands as we would treat them here and make the rule of the United States mean the same thing everywhere—the same justice, the same consideration for the essential rights of men.

Besides contributing our ungrudging moral and practical support to the establishment of peace throughout the world, we must actively and intelligently prepare ourselves to do our full service in the trade and industry which are to sustain and develop the life of the nations in the days to come.

We have already been provident in this great matter and supplied ourselves with the instrumentalities of prompt adjustment. We have created, in the federal trade commission, a means of inquiry and of accommodation in the field of commerce which ought both to co-ordinate the enterprises of our traders and manufacturers and to remove the barriers of misunderstanding and of a too technical interpretation of the law. In the new tariff commission we have added another instrumentality of observation and adjustment which promises to be immediately serviceable. The trade commission substitutes counsel and accommodation for the harsher processes of legal restraint, and the tariff commission ought to substitute facts for prejudices and theories. Our exporters have for some time had the advantage of working in the new light thrown upon foreign markets and opportunities of trade by the intelligent inquiries and activities of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce which the Democratic congress so wisely created in 1912. The tariff commission completes the machinery by which we shall be enabled to open up our legislative policy to the facts as they develop.

We can no longer indulge our traditional provincialism. We are to play a leading part in the world drama whether we wish it or not. We shall lend, not borrow; act for ourselves, not imitate or follow; organize and initiate, not peep about merely to see where we may get in.

We have already formulated and agreed upon a policy of law which will explicitly remove the ban now supposed to rest upon co-operation among our exporters in seeking and securing their proper place in the markets of the world. The field will be free, the instrumentalities at hand. It will only remain for the masters of enterprise among us to act in energetic concert and for the government of the United States to insist upon the maintenance throughout the world of those conditions of fairness and of even handed justice in the commercial dealings of the nations with one another upon which, after all, in the last analysis the peace and ordered life of the world must ultimately depend.

Ban Unfair Competition.

At home also we must see to it that the men who plan and develop and direct our business enterprises shall enjoy definite and settled conditions of law, a policy accommodated to the freest progress. We have set the just and necessary limits. We have put all kinds of unfair competition under the ban and penalty of the law. We have barred monopoly. These fatal and ugly things being excluded, we must now quicken action and facilitate enterprise by every just means within our choice. There will be peace in the business world and, with peace, revived confidence and life.

We ought both to husband and to develop our natural resources, our mines, our forests, our water power. I wish we could have made more progress than we have made in this vital matter, and I call once more, with the deepest earnestness and solicitude, upon the advocates of a careful and prudent conservation, on the one hand, and the advocates of a free and inviting field for private capital,

In one county in South Dakota over 90 farmers were "caught" for $200 a piece—in one month—by a "get-rich-quick" schemer. If those farmers had consulted their BANKER, before investing their hard earned money, they wouldn't have been "burnt." We will gladly advise with you on any investment you are thinking of making. Many Stanford people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pill—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Stanford citizen's recommendation.

J. T. Spoonamore, Whitley Ave., Stanford, says: "I was down with my back and I could not stoop or lift. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and caused me great deal of annoyance. I tried a dozen different medicines but did not get any benefit until I went to Shugars & Tanner's Drug Store and procured a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills. By the time I had taken two boxes, I was cured. Kidney trouble has never bothered me since."

Price 50¢ at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mr. Spoonamore. Foster-Milburn Co., Prop., Buffalo, N. Y.

Stop The First Cold

A cold does not get well of itself. The process of wearing out a cold wears you out, and your cough becomes serious if neglected. Hackings drain the energy and sap the vitality. For 47 years the happy combination of soothing antiseptic balms in Dr. King's New Discovery has healed coughs and relieved congestion. Young and old can testify to the effectiveness of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs and colds. Buy a bottle today at your druggist 50c.

Splendid Home At Auction

As we are residents of another State, we desire to sell our 10 Room Brick House On Main St.

In the city of Stanford, Ky., on East Main Street. There is a good stable and other outbuildings on the lot. The house is in a good state of repair; has large, beautiful side lawn and back yard with a nice lot of fruit trees. It is an ideal home with spacious grounds. There are about three acres in same and most of the frontage is on a splendid street, facing the main portion of the city, being only three squares from the court-house. We will sell this property in four or five lots and then offer it as a whole, accepting the plan that brings the most money.

Lot No. 1, upon which the 10-room brick house is, is a corner lot with frontage of 95 feet on Main street and 147 feet deep from center of the street.

Lot No. 2 is 47 1-2 feet on Main street running back 147 feet from the center of the street with nice extra lot back of the L. R. Hughes' place.

Lot. No. 3 faces street on side next to court-house with frontage of 55 feet and depth of 210 feet from center of the street.

Lot No. 4 is 55 feet, fronting on same street, running back 210 ft. The back lines of both these lots is 55 feet. In front of these lots five feet will be taken from each for a common driveway for the use of the two lots.

Lot. No. 5 has a frontage on same street of 47 feet and runs back 210, thence 269 feet to railroad, thence up railroad 243 feet, thence 290 feet to the beginning.

These lots all lay splendidly.

TERMS:--One-third cash; balance in six and 12 months, in equal payments, bearing six per cent. interest from date with lien on land to satisfy same.

There Will Be No By-Bidding; The High Dollar Will Get The Place.

The Sale Will Be Held on The Premises at

Gained Weight and Now Eats

Great Lexington Woman Glad To Recommend New Medicine.

"I used Tanlac for loss of appetite and indigestion," said Mrs. Eliza Coffey, of McKinney Sunday night: Misses Nancy and Lydia Weddle, of Hustonville, John Nave, of Shakertown, and Arthur Coffey, of this city.

Human energy depends largely upon the stomach, kidneys and liver. When these great organs shirk their duty, ambition wanes.

Tanlac is a vegetable food which restores tone to the system and is delicately adapted to the stomachs, kidneys and livers that are ailing.

Tanlac is being specially introduced in Stanford at Penny Drug Store, E. R. Coleman, Prop.

Tanlac may be obtained at the following nearby cities: Moreland, Abraham Minks; Hustonville, Adams Bros.; McKinney, True & Co.; Ellensburg, W. C. Bryant; Crab Orchard, Lyne Bros.; Brodhead, John Robbins; Lancaster, R. E. McRoberts; Bee Lick, J. Reynolds & Son; Waynesburg, W. A. Horton.

CURIOS OF 1835 AND 1864.

A beautiful relic of 1835 is a white counterpane owned by Mrs. Kate Egbert and it looks like it would be here as many more years as it is in perfect condition as far as we could see. It was made of flax spun and woven by Mrs. Joshua Curtis, who before marriage was a Miss McRoberts, and was mother of Mrs. Egbert. The counterpane is woven in the pattern called M's and O's and Miss McRoberts was in the loom room weaving it when Mr. Curtis came to ask her father for her hand in marriage. She left the loom to look out of a window to watch the two in conversation and a bark in the weaving is shown that she made when resuming her work. Two relics of 1864 owned by Mrs. Egbert are a jewelry case and powder horn. The former was made by Mr. A. M. Egbert while a prisoner of war in a northern prison in Boston, Mass.,

and bears the inscription on the bottom, "Made by A. M. Egbert, Fort Warren, Cell No. 7, Sept. 1, 1864." This little casket was made entirely of cigar boxes, handsomely carved and put together with common dress pins, while there are carved hearts at the top and at sides are tiny mirrors and near the bottom on front sides is a small drawer. One side is this inscription: "Theodore Egbert, a prisoner of war, Camp Ford, near Tyler, Texas, Sept. 26, 1864. Captured Apr. 8, 1864, at Mansfield, La. Exchanged Oct. 1864." All of this work is beautifully done with a sharp pointed instrument. Mrs. Egbert also has a handsome Chess Set made of spools highly polished, which is the work of her son, Curtis, who died a few years ago. The chess board is of blue and white checks with glass top nicely framed. This is one of the handsomest sets that we ever saw and Mrs. Egbert has refused many liberal offers for it.

Mrs. Claudia Holman is using a coffee mill that was carried thru the war by her grandfather Carson.

Don't Neglect Your Cold

Neglected colds get worse, instead of better. A stuffed head, a tight chest must be relieved at once. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is Nature's remedy. Honey and glycerine heal the irritated membrane, antiseptic tar loosens the phlegm, you breathe easier and your cold is broken up. Pleasant to take, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is an ideal remedy for children as well as grown-ups. At your Druggist, 25¢.

MADE MONEY IN GINSENG

Less than six years ago Bristol Taylor, then a poorly paid young public school teacher in the Kentucky mountains, set out a small plot of land in ginseng. He kept extending it. A day or so ago Taylor brought 750 pounds of dry ginseng from his Rockhouse Creek ginseng farm to Whitesburg for shipment to New York dealers for which he will receive in return $3,800 in cash, and that too from a spot a little less than an acre. Besides, Mr. Taylor will sell a considerable quantity of seed taken from the ginseng, so remunerative is the culture of ginseng. Mr. Taylor plans setting out two acres this additional fall, and will make other increases in his ginseng farm back in the Rockhouse Creek mountains. Taylor has transformed the Rockhouse Creek mountains. He has built model roadways from his home to the settlements in the Rockhouse Creek valley; has built a splendid home and now is independent alone from his ginseng garden, one of the largest in the Kentucky mountains.

DAILY MUSICAL TREAT AT STATE FAIR BY NATIELLO'S ROYAL HUSSAR BAND

Marianne Conway and Signor Ernesto Natiello.

THIRTY-FIVE high-class musicians, including the famous bandmaster Signor Ernesto Natiello and noted soloists and instrumentalists, constitute the Natiello's Royal Hussar Band that will be the big feature at the Kentucky State Fair, September 11-16. The management was very fortunate in securing this band, for there is none better in the country. All the men will be attired in white Hussar uniforms that give the band a distinctive all its own.

Both the band and the soloists carry out Signor Natiello's long-known motto—"Give the people the music they want." This gives satisfaction all around and pleases everyone. The programs, which are changed daily, include both popular and classic selections.

The soloist with the band is Marianne Conway, one of the foremost concert sopranos in the United States. She has sung with the Boston Fadettes, Theodore Roehmildt's Orchestra, Rich. Max Hormig's Orchestra and others of similar standing. Her voice is said to be very fine and has a range that enables her to sing all classes of pieces.

A feature that is attracting much attention wherever the Natiello Band appears is the Una-Fon, a new instrument. It is played like a piano and has a rich tone that can be heard at great distance. This band is the first to include the Una-Fon in its equipment.

Leader of Ability.

Ernesto Natiello, leader of the celebrated band of thirty-five pieces bearing his name, which will be a feature of the Kentucky State Fair, was born in Italy in 1878. Six years later his father, Signor Antonio Natiello, came to America and was appointed bandmaster on the United States Ship Brooklyn. He made Ernesto cornet soloist in a band he had organized in Philadelphia.

In 1889 Ernesto returned to Europe to finish his musical studies. Attaining the highest degree of perfection on the cornet, young Natiello came back to the United States as soloist with the famous Band of Milan. After an American tour, he returned to Naples and enlisted in the Italian army, serving as cornetist in his regiment for six months. Then he again came to America and joined a prominent band, shortly after which he recruited a musical organization of his own.

NEW SADDLE HORSE STARS

To Prance for Prizes in Banner Rings at Coming Kentucky State Fair.

WHEN the pavilion gates swing wide for the entrants in the four greatest horse events listed for the fourteenth annual Kentucky State Fair, to be held September 11-16, it is surmised that not one of the proud high-steppers in the Championship Five-Gaited Saddle Horse ring formerly known as the Commissioner of Agriculture's Five-Gaited Saddle Horse Stake, held Friday night of the Fair—the Kentucky Championship Roadster Stake and the Kentucky Champion Fine Harness Stake, $500 additional to the entry money, and in the new three-gaited saddle horse stake the bonus added to the entry money will be $200. As this stake is new to State Fair history, the entrants in same will, of necessity, be new to horsemen. In the fine harness stake the prospects are likewise for new blood. In the roadster stakes it is anticipated that the greatest lot of entries ever shown in a like event will be listed for the contest. Those who have purchased nominations above are:

HOW HE FOUND GOD

In a September American Magazine a writer tells how he found God. He says, "It takes a girl in our factory about two days to learn to put the seventeen parts of a meat chopper together. It may be that these millions of worlds, each with its separate orbit, all balanced so wonderfully in place—it may be that they just happened; it may be that they finally arranged themselves. I don't know. I am merely a plain manufacturer of cutlery. But this I do know, that you can shake the seventeen parts of a meat chopper around in a wash-tub for the next seventeen billion years and you'll never make a meat chopper."

EMINENT FAIR DIRECTORS

Mat. S. Cohen and W. J. Gooch Are Arranging Features of Interest and Vital Importance Which Promise to Make the Coming Fair the Greatest Event in the History of the State.

DOMINANT in the preparation for and operation of the Kentucky State Fair are two officials, the Commissioner of Agriculture and the State Fair Secretary. Both are vital to the importance and welfare of the great agricultural and industrial celebration which serves as a clearing-house for the year's accomplishment throughout the State, and both should possess gifts beyond the ordinary measure. And it is fortunate, indeed, to Kentucky at large that both offices are filled this year with men who give promise of being ideally suited to guide the fourteenth annual Kentucky State Fair to be held in Louisville, September 11-16 to a success which will be a revelation to the State at large.

Cohen's Standing.

Madison Sandidge Cohen, the newly elected Commissioner of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics, better and more briefly known as Mat. S. Cohen, is a newcomer to politics, but his whirlwind victory in the November elections typifies the man. Prior to his entry in the political arena he was a recognized authority as a horseman and stock raiser, lecturing at Kentucky State College, Missouri State College and Kansas City State College and writing and publishing volumes bearing on the subject dear to the heart of every Kentuckian and important to the commercial welfare and world-wide prestige of the State as an unrivaled breeding point. His experience in stock raising and agriculture will stand him in good stead as host at large to the State at the Kentucky State Fair and his grace of manner, brilliancy of intellect and personal magnetism will make him ideal in that capacity.

Record of Gooch.

In W. J. Gooch the public will meet a personality embodying all the ideals and traditions of Kentucky as to staleness of physique, suavity of manner and courtliness of bearing. In his hands the reins of State Fair government are happily placed, Mr. Gooch being an executive par excellence and a man trained by years of experience in handling big commercial and political interests. Mr. Gooch was, for three terms, a member of the Kentucky Legislature and served in 1908 as Speaker of the House, presiding over the daily joint sessions of the Senate and House during the memorable deadlock in the Beckham-Bradley contest for the U. S. Senate. To his high honor it is said that he was elected unanimously and his record stands without a flaw and as a boast to his party. Governor Stanley's personal knowledge of and friendship for Mr. Gooch led to his requesting the latter to take charge of the great enterprise so important to the commonwealth and the people of the State may anticipate one of the most brilliant, successful and enjoyable Fair celebrations ever given in Kentucky.

Kentucky State Fair Provides for Boys' Pig Clubs in An Elaborate Manner

Many Counties to be Represented—Boys to be Given Free Trips to the Great Fair.

In 1915 a boys' pig club was introduced into Kentucky. Thirteen counties were organized under the leadership of their county agents and 649 boys became members. Local shows were held and the winning boy from each county received a free trip to the Farmer Boys' Encampment at the State Fair. Sixteen boys were given this trip and eighteen pigs were exhibited. This was the first state pig club show in Kentucky. Although the exhibit was small, the interest was so great and the showing so good that the pig club has become one of the most popular and beneficial boys' clubs in Farm Demonstration Work.

From this small beginning the boys' pig club has spread to 40 counties with a membership of 1,250 boys in a single year. Bankers, business men and farmers have co-operated to the extent of placing over $5,000.00 worth of pure bred hogs in the hands of these boys.

The state agent and county agents co-operated in organizing, holding meetings, securing registered pigs, visiting members, and instructing them along the proper lines of animal husbandry.

The 1916 pig club started May 15th. Each boy had a gilt between two and four months of age, and most of them secured registered pigs. Record books were furnished the boys and the pigs were weighed and ear tagged by the county agent at the beginning of the contest.

Local Shows First.

It is contemplated that a local show be held in each of the counties organized, at which numerous prizes will be given. The first prize in each county will be a free trip to the Farmer Boys'

Encampment, given by the State Fair and College of Agriculture, to the boy making the best showing as follows:

- (a) Best hog with respect to purpose for which it was raised... 40%
- (b) Greatest daily gains..... 15%
- (c) Cheapest cost of production... 25%
- (d) Best kept record book... 20%

Not only will the winning boy be given a free trip to the fair, but negotiations are now under way whereby the best two pigs from each county will be sent to the fair free. Already one of the largest railroads in Kentucky has granted free transportation to and from the fair for the best two pigs in counties having pig clubs along its lines.

Free Entrance Fee.

The Kentucky State Fair has realized the educational value of an exhibit from these boys and to that end have opened their doors wide, allowing each pig club exhibitor free entrance, free pens and a distinct and separate department, at the same time giving them the privilege to exhibit in the breeders classes. Over $150.00 in prizes has been given by record associations, business men and farmers. Last year one boy defeated a ring of twenty-four choice pigs.

The results of the pig club have been widespread; hundreds of farmers have changed their feeding methods; pure bred hogs have been taken into counties where they were not known; community breeding has resulted in six or seven counties; boys are becoming interested in the farm; greater interest is being centered on the swine industry of Kentucky and this coming September 11 to 16, 1916, the greatest hog show in the history of the Kentucky State Fair is predicted.

COURT DAY AT HARRODSBURG

Monday was court day at Harrodsburg. The Democrat says that while October court day is the time mules colts usually sell there were a number changed hands Monday. B. G. Fox, of Danville, who buys for King, the big Pennsylvania dealer, was on hand and secured a big bunch. Jake Brown bought 43. They were of an average quality. The price is considered very good for the character of colts obtained. He paid $2,171 for the 43, an average of something over $50. Trading was quite brisk on the whole and a number of work mules were sold at splendid prices.

Waynesburg

Her host of friends were greatly grieved to learn of the death Monday of Mrs. Elizabeth Singleton, which occurred at her home here. She was in very good health, able to attend to her home duties, but was stricken with paralysis Sunday evening about five o'clock, and the end came Monday morning at seven. Deceased was born Oct. 1, 1837, was a member of the Double Springs Baptist church about 61 years, and always lived a consecrated Christian life. She was married to Hardin Singleton Feb. 4, 1857, he having preceded her to the Great Beyond about 15 years ago. She is survived by two sisters, Mesdames Susan Harness and D. W. Caldwell, and five children, H. H. Singleton, Mrs. W. H. Onstott and Mrs. Hardin Claunch, of this place, Mrs. Pitman, of Ludlow, and Mrs. J. D. Singleton, of Texas. A large crowd was present at the funeral services which were conducted at the church Tuesday at 1:30 P. M., by the pastor, E. W. Coakley. The body was laid to final rest in the Waynesburg cemetery. A good woman has gone to her reward.

The children desire to thank all the friends for their kindness to them during the illness and death of their mother.

There will be a Home Coming at the church here the third Saturday and Sunday in September, beginning at 2:30 on Saturday. All day services Sunday. It is desired that every member be present if possible. Come and meet the new pastor and all the ex-pastors, who may be present. Everybody invited to come.

Mr. Van Singleton is very ill at this writing. Master Dewitt Ballard is also ill.

Mrs. Oliver Singleton and Miss Eva Singleton, visited their brother, Roy Singleton in Huntsville, Tenn., the latter part of last week.

Among those who attended the Somerset fair from here were Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Gooch, Mr. and Mrs. R. Curiel, Miss Marcie Reynolds, Mrs. A. B. Morgan, Mrs. Velma Dumas, Miss Grace Jeffreys, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Curiel, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Gooch, Mr. T. S. Reynolds and Master Butler Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reynolds spent last week with relatives in Ludlow, Covington and Marathon, O.

Mrs. Dewitt Lou Allen and little daughter, of Danville, visited her aunt, Mrs. A. B. Morgan Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. R. E. O'Dear and daughter, Hester, of Ludlow, attended the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Singleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Wheedon and little son and Mrs. W. R. Singleton and daughter, Miss Cora Singleton attended the wedding of Miss Barbara Russell and Mr. Frank Weintjes at Otterheim Wednesday.

Rev. E. W. Coakley is conducting a series of meetings at the Pond school house.
